Set among the lush hills of Haiku, on Maui's storied north shore, this residence stands as one of the district's most architecturally distinguished private estates. Designed by an award winning Maui architect, the home reveals its pedigree from the moment its glass doors part, opening into a great room of vaulted ceilings and rich maple floors, where light and trade winds move freely through a space that feels as much a part of the landscape as the jungle canopy surrounding it. The kitchen is a study in refined function, granite counters, a substantial center island,
