Close to an acre on Keawakapu Beach, where South Kihei Road ends and Wailea begins. Roughly 170 feet along the water lets the homes stand far back behind a wide green lawn and a grove of tall coconut palms. Look west and Kaho'olawe and Lanai fill the horizon, with sunsets in the ocean in every season. The primary residence sits under a great thatched roof, framed in Douglas fir and lined in woven bamboo. The great room rises into the trusses and opens fully to a covered stone lanai. Grass comes next, then the sandy beach. The primary suite is tucked under
